How to Feel Happy: Finding Your Comfort Zone

Answer these questions briefly, before you score yourself below:

1. When was the last time you tried something new? .................................................................
2. How much are you learning and growing right now? .................................................................
3. Do you feel you’re doing too much - or not enough? .................................................................
4. When was the last time you took a risk? .....................................................................................
5. Do you feel like it’s time for a shift - or a change? .................................................................

So, where are you on the How to Feel Happy: Comfort Continuum?

Now, simply put an X on the line to represent how comfortable you are in your life right now:

```
-5  |  0  |  +5
Uncomfortable | Comfortable | Asleep
```

Now, as you look at where you are on the comfort continuum, is this where you want to be? We need some time in our comfort zones to rest, but are you recharging or heading towards Snoozeville?

How to Feel Happy: Finding Your Comfort Zone—making a promise to yourself.

Finally, what actions will you take to get moving? Think especially about things you have been putting off doing - perhaps because they leave you feeling uncomfortable! This could be anything from making that phone call, updating your resume to taking an exotic vacation or starting a new hobby or activity. Simply write your actions in the space below - and be as specific as you can!

1st Action: Something you can do now! (Right away or by the end of today) ____________________________
2nd Action: ___________________________________________ by when _________________ 3rd Action: ___________________________________________ by when _________________

Way to go, I’m proud of you! Now doesn’t that feel exciting?
